

Organization of KTH and School of Computer Science and Communication

The education at KTH is since 2005 organized in nine schools. One main idea was to give the schools a stronger responsibility for specific programs and courses in their academic subjects, as well as for the program students.